Attendance at CSUN Global Accessibility Conference 2023 in Anaheim

Provide a short summary of the work that was completed as part of this grant. *

I applied to attend the CSUN 2023 annual global accessibility conference in Anaheim, US. This conference relates to digital accessibility and inclusion and the latest web accessibility standards, techniques and practices. With a new version of WCAG (2.2) due to be released, attendance at this conference will be key in being able to network with and learn from leading global specialists in accessibility, learning latest tools and techniques for implementing and testing these new requirements.

Describe the "who, what, where and when" of your initiative.

What are the outcomes of this project? *

I attended the CSUN 2023 annual global accessibility conference in Anaheim, US. I also got the chance due to being able to attend to co-present with a colleague on how designers can implement WCAG 2.2 (pending).

Our room was fully packed and so people were turned away, showing the need and appetite for understanding the latest WCAG standard

Sharing this knowledge as well as networking and learning from other leading professional in this field has been and will be invaluable in my current role and passion which involves consulting and training for a lot of projects with financial, educational, telecom and government organisations as well as private sector within New Zealand.

Attending this conference has helped me be up to date with latest recommendations, techniques for sharing and training within New Zealand. I intend to host events for the community via our Meetup to share what was learned.

Describe major achievements resulting from this grant.
