

InternetNZ product development quarterly report

October - December
2019

Quarterly review

This past quarter has seen the team focused in the following areas:

1. Launching our latest product, Defenz-DNS Firewall has been a key milestone and we are excited to have a security offering in the New Zealand market that adds a layer of effective protection for organisations in NZ internetnz.nz/defenz
2. Launching the beta of Broadband Map 2.0 lays the foundation for ongoing improvements for how we help tell NZ's broadband story. From the beta which will run into early 2020 we will make some final tweaks before going live with the new site Beta.broadbandmap.nz
3. We ran a couple of co-design workshops to explore and journey map how a .nz registry lock service might operate. This is a new service we are looking to develop in early 2020
4. This quarter saw us establish a complete product team encompassing product management, business development, support and development. In 2020 our focus will be on creating efficient and transparent work practices that help us deliver value the supports how New Zealanders harness the power of the Internet.
