What impact has this work had? *

The Internet NZ Grant has enabled us to build a website focusing on Deaf and disabled artists. The impact of this work is that Deaf and disabled artists will be visible in the wider arts sector. Deaf and disabled artists have a collective platform and a place to find support. Staff at Arts Access Aotearoa have a deeper understanding of building accessible websites. We have scheduled training from our Access Consultant to ensure we can maintain the accessibility of the website. The work has also been an opportunity for us to connect with disabled designers.

You may like to share any feedback you have received or describe changes you have noticed, for example, who and how people are able to engage with your website.

Provide evidence of the improved accessibility of your website.

For example before and after images, screen recordings, testing or feedback.

What did you learn during this project? *

During this project we have learnt that accessibility is an ongoing journey, with web accessibility just one element worth considering. We are always striving to understand where our organisation sits with accessibility and improving our baseline. This project has proved we are always learning and should always be adapting for the needs of our Tangata Whaikaha.

Share anything that might help others who are also looking to improve their web accessibility.
