What were the highlights and main takeaways of this conference?

LCN consists of the main conference and associated workshops. The main conference generally focuses on established and emerging topics in Internet systems and computer networks. The workshops are a smaller forum for discussing early works and provide a platform to receive feedback on emerging areas. The workshops covered various topics such as 5G communication in the Internet of Things, wearable devices, vehicular networks, sensor networks, and cognitive networks. Some of the workshops are long-running (SenseApp), while some are new. There were 2 keynote talks. One talk focused on device-free context awareness and the other talk was on security and privacy issues in the Internet of Things. The main conference had 3 parallel sessions and covered a wide range of topics with new topics taking up more sessions than traditional topics.

What were the favorite sessions, any contacts you made, etc.

What were the lowlights of the conference?

LCN is an established conference. The conference features good papers and keynote talks. The conference is small enough having lively discussions.

What would you do differently?

How will you plan to share your learnings with the New Zealand Internet Community?

The learnings are being shared with graduate students and colleagues in the university as well as with colleagues in other NZ institutions such as Otago Polytechnic and Unitec.
