What were the highlights and main takeaways of this conference?

The speakers were very professional and informative and I learnt so much especially in regards to Meeting other like minded health professionals and making great contacts was a definite highlight.

The main takeaway for me was the fact that digital health is the way of the future and it surprised me that New Zealand was such a leader in this field.

There was a lot of discussion generated after my presentations, and in particular the presentation on ethics in digital health was most interesting. We had professors from Germany, China the US and Australia and it was so interesting to hear the differences in opinion on what data should be protected and who owns data. It was my opinion that the data should always belong to the person and they should be able to retract their personal data at any time they choose, which caused quite a ruffle with the Americans and Chinese, but in Germany this is already law.

What were the favorite sessions, any contacts you made, etc.

What were the lowlights of the conference?

I would have liked to have spent time after the conference interacting with the speakers themselves as the calibre of the other presenters was of such a high standard.

Networking and discussing topics further would have been extremely beneficial.

What would you do differently?

How will you plan to share your learnings with the New Zealand Internet Community?

On the 8th of May 2019, I was the guest speaker at the Rotary Club in Dargaville. I spoke about the International Conference on Digital Health and what I had learnt from my attendance there. I showed a power point with photos and answered many questions from the large audience.

I am looking for other speaking opportunities to share my findings, including the Health Informatics NZ Conference in Hamilton in November.

I am open to write a paper if the opportunity presents itself.

Provide additional details:

I spoke briefly about Jacinda Ardern and her role after the Christchurch massacres. A muslim lady in the audience came up to me after I spoke and gave me a huge hug. She said "Please pass on to your Prime Minister how extremely thankful we are."
